New! Crescendo 34

The Crescendo 34 is an ideal blend of affordability, portability and depth of sound in a $4\frac{3}{4}$ -octave range. With solid sapele wood neck, back and sides (like our popular Allegro 26), the Crescendo 34 has a clean, bright sound with a deep, resonant bass.

This harp is the same overall size as its 32-string predecessor, but now goes down to the low C in the bass. For playing comfort, we've added facets on the upper corners of the back. This clever "hybrid-stave" design provides the ergonomic benefits of our popular 36-string stave-back harp at a portion of the cost.

To keep the carrying size to a minimum while giving maximum flexibility of playing height, the Crescendo 34 includes an innovative removable stand. It has 5-inch removable legs and nestles into the base of the harp, attaching in seconds with the twist of a knob and without turning the harp upside down. 8-inch legs are an option for those who prefer more height. For those who like a lower height, the harp balances beautifully on the ground without the stand.

The Crescendo 34 delivers a great combination of range, performance and value in an elegant and easy-to-manage harp.
